From the Fathers.....On Choosing The Unlettered

Now we can see how in a short time this religion has grown up, making progress through the persecution and death of its adher-ents and through their endurance of confiscation of property and very kind of bodily torture. And this is particularly remarkable since the teachers themselves were neither very skilful nor very numerous. For in spite of all, this word is being "preached in all the world," so that Greeks and barbarians, wise and foolish now are adopting the Christian religion.
Hence there can be no doubt that it is not by human strength or resources that the word of Christ comes to prevail with all authority and convincing power in the minds and hearts of all humanity.

St Origen (185 - 254)
