The Catholic Faith and Science

A talk by Rev. Dr. Andrew Pinsent on Sunday 7th March 4.00-5.30pm at St Joseph's Church, St Margaret Drive, Epsom. Fr Andrew who is Assistant Priest at Epsom, is also Research Director of the Ian Ramsey Centre for Science and Religion at the University of Oxford and formerly a particle physicist at CERN. All are most welcome.

I want a laity, not arrogant, not rash in speech, not disputatious, but men who know their religion, who enter into it, who know just where they stand, who know what they hold, and what they do not, who know their creed so well, that they can give an account of it, who know so much history that they can defend it. I want an intelligent, well instructed laity... You ought to be able to bring out what you feel and what you mean as well as to feel and mean it...

Cardinal John Henry Newman "On The Laity"

From The Fathers...

“ How did he make those who received the promise spectators in something so wonderful? He goes up into the mountain taking three chosen disciples with him. He is transformed to such a surpassing and God like brightness that his garments even glittered with rays of fire and seemed to flash like lightning. Besides, Moses and Elijah stood at Jesus' side and spoke with one another about his departure that he was about, it says, to accomplish in Jerusalem. This meant the mystery of the dispensation in the flesh and of his precious suffering on the cross. It is also true that the law of Moses and the word of the holy prophets foreshadowed the mystery of Christ. The law of Moses foreshadowed it by types and shadows, painting it as in a picture. The Holy prophets in different ways declared beforehand that in due time he would appear in our likeness and for the salvation and life of us all, agree to suffer death on the tree. Moses and Elijah standing before him and talking with one another was a sort of representation. It excellently displayed our Lord Jesus Christ as having the law and the prophets for his body-guard. It displayed Christ as being Lord of the law and the prophets, as foretold in them by those things they proclaimed in mutual agreement beforehand. The words of the prophets are not different from the teachings of the law.”

St Cyril of Alexandria (c376-444)
