EDITH STEIN (ST TERESA BENEDICTA OF THE CROSS) 1891-1942
Born into a German Jewish family, she had a distinguished career as a philosopher, earning a doctorate at a time that few women were recognised in academia. Inspired by the works of St Teresa of Avila, Edith converted to Catholicism. She joined the Carmelite Order, taking the name of Teresa Benedicta of the Cross. She was arrested as a Jewish convert and sent to Auschwitz, where she was killed in 9 August 1942. She was canonised in 1998.

FROM THE FATHERS
Jesus Is The Bread Of Life
The Benefits of Frequent Communion.
What then does Christ promise? Nothing corruptible, but rather that blessing in the participation of his holy flesh and blood that restores humanity wholly to incorruption so that it should need none of the things that normally drive off the death of the flesh, for example, food and drink .... The holy body of Christ gives life to those who have it within themselves, and by holding them together, [it] grants incorruption, inasmuch as it is commingled with our bodies .... Since these things are so, let those who have been baptized and tasted the divine grace understand this: if they are sluggish or reluctant about going to church and for long periods of time keep away from the eucharistic gift through Christ, feigning a pernicious reverence by not partaking of him sacramentally, they exclude themselves from eternal life inasmuch as they decline to be enlivened. Thus, their refusal [to partake of the Eucharist] though seeming to be an expression of reverence, is turned into a snare and an offense.
